For several weeks past the Holmes Company of Gardiner has been making extensive preparations for a series of tests to establish the utility of their new lubricant material as a means of reducing friction and increasing the rotary motion of shells and increasing the rotary motion of shells fired from a rifed cannon. The preparations consisted in the securing of a three and a half-inch rifled cannon and the manfired from a rifled cannon. The preparations consisted in the securing of a three and a half-inch rifled cannon and the manufacture of four shells to fit the cannon-each shell weighing sixteen pounds. Heretofore the shell has been provided with a band of copper, a material which greatly increases the friction without giving the amount of rotary motion necessary. Mr. P. H. Holmes, the patentee of the new material, contended that by its use in the place of the copper ring these objections could be greatly overcome. The preparations for making the tests were completed Saurdoy, and in the afternoon the members of the company and those interested in the new material, made a trip to the vicinity of Pleasant Pond, several miles up the Cobbosise stream, where a suitable range was obtained. The instructions requived by the government called for the use of two pounds of gunpowder, but only one and one-quarter pounds were used. The four shots were fired, and in every case the results were highly satisfactory, going far beyond their most sanguine expectations. The rotary motion imparted to the shell penetrated the planking and other obstructions is its pathway, as it cut a smooth, round hole about its own size. The shot as fired left the barrel of the gun finely polithed. One of the shells was traced for a distance of two and one-half miles, and in the planking and other obstructions, a fact which shows that the friction is much leas and that only one-half the amount of powder is necessary to carry the shell having the graphite ring is succeptible to contraction or expansion and thus keeps the propelling gazes behind it more completely than the copper ring, which does not possess these properties to such a degree. Another test of a similar nature was made at the same range, Monday, and in about a week a much last unity shells will be fired and every part will be given at horough trial. It is balawed that the ring will give the same ast sfactory results which were so

The report of the production of articles of iron and steel during the year 1890 profitable for the Government to use its shows totals larger than nave ever been money in buying bonds bearing 4 percent. made before in this or any other country. Pig iron production, which amounted to 7,268,507 tons in 1988, increased to 10,307, suspending the purchase of bonds and the 028 tons in 1890. The Bessemer steel pro- policy of the Secretary in regard to the 414 duct during the past year was over six million tons, which is an increase of over siderations of the autumn money market 75 per cent, in two years. in 1888 the total than from any present or any anticipated 084,767 tons, and in 1890 it was 31,307,472 $23,500,000 of the 4 per cent, bonds are in tons, which is certainly a most remarkable the Treasury as security for National Congressman Hitt has received from Evans Blake, at Crefeld, Germany, a comparative statement of the exports from that place to the United States during the quarters ending March 31, 1890 and 1891 respectively. This statement Mr. Hitt regards as interesting, it not of importance, as showing the operation of the new tariff law with regard to the importation of silks, velvets, velveteens, plushes, etc., into the United States. The Consul states that from this small German manufacturlag centre alone the falling off in plush ods is represented by the export values of $22,797 for 1901, as against $131,324 for 1890, while in the classes of sok and and in the class of velvets from $911,641 to $782,416. Of raw silk, which had previously been exported hence in moderate quantity, there was none sent in the list quarter in 1893. These figures illustrate, Mr. Hitt, says, that the McKloley law is doing just what it was intended to do.

Mapr Mckinley addressed the inton League Club, of Brooklyo, 'Eussday even-ing on "The Republican Party." In the ing on "The Republican Party." In the course of his able—speech Mr. Mckinley—Saturday a large quantity of our celebrat-said—"The Democrats deplace that they will not make tarift or silver the Issue of the next campaign, but the Billion dollar Creams. The Democrats who invest their money in manufactures are are going to be as tenarious of it as Republicans.

"Vindication" by Fraud. io an unenviable way. He is the man who occupied the seat in Congress to which Col. Clayton was elected, but the latter was assessmated by the Arkansas Bourbons to get bim out of the way. The daktardly outrage was ventilated by a Congressional investigation and the seat was declared vacant. Breckingidge went home and sought "vindication" by securing a reelection. When the word was sent over the wires that he had been successful, the Democrats howled with of and there was talk of giving Breekerridge a "great ovation" when he returned to Washington. It now appears that the Federal Grand Jury has been investigating this so called "vindication, ' and with startling results. The pell books which were delivered to the Grand Jury last week, after months of Differ opposition on the part of the Demoeratic party, show the impossible claim that every colored man who has died or moved. away since election is recorded as having vered for Breekingdge. In Melbourne Township, Conway County, 200 tickets were found in the ballot boxes with Breckinninge pasters over the name of the to Republican-Loion candidately although no. such tickets were in use on election day. a number corresponding to that opposite enabled the Grand Jury to detect the frauds. But it is instructive to note that the Arkansas Legislature at its recent session repealed the law requiring such numbering. Indictments have been returned and the Election Judges and Clerks and their fellow conspirators will be arrested and tried. The Arkansas thags who murdered Col. Clayton are still at large, but it is to be hoped that this second performance in the interest of Breckmridge may result in the speedy publishment of the men who tampered with ballot-boxes.

The Government's Finances

A Washington Wor reporter, asked Edward O. Leech, Director of the Mint, for an explanation of the statement made by him on Saturday that there was an available cash balance of $258,000,000 in the Treasury. Mr. Leech said: "The money in the Treasury which amounted to 8751,-000,000 on the first of this month, consists of two classes, that which the government holds as trustee, and that which it owns. The gold and silver certificates, amounting to $193,000,000, including currency certificates, represent trust money; that is, the coin has been deposited by iadividuals and the Government has issued a certificate to pay back the same upon demand. Possibly the fund of $5,000,000 $4000 B. & P. R. R. 56. placed with the Treasury by National condition is trust money; but as Congress oust ordered the money piaced here by National banks for the retirement of their conceive why this money is any more

"The remainder of the money in the F. H. C. REYNOLDS & CO. Treatury, some $358,000,000, belongs to government absolutely. Prior to 1885 the available balance in the Treasury was always shown as the amount of money which actually belongs to the governmen The $100,000,000 in gold purchased by the sale of bunds for resumption purposes was always included as a portion of the available balance in the Treasury prior to that date by all of the Secretaries of the Treasury, and there is no peason why it should be set apart. Nor is there any resson why the legal-tender, notes issued in the purchase of sliver bu-lion are any more a current liability against the cash in the Treasury than the oth it greenbacks are. They are the same class of loga-tender money, only a bester money.) These notes are not silver money, as people gencrally suppose. They are boned in the first instance in the purchase of allver builtien, but as they come thack into the

of money. So, too, to regard to the re-edings of the subsidiary sliver coins, Congress made an appropriation of $150,000 to pay the loss on such recoinage, and just as soon as we get some new design for our coins it 's my intention to set the mints at work of such fecoinage as far as the ap-propriation will extend. But neither of these matters has anything to do with relieving any shortage in the Treasury. Whether the Secretary should decide to extend the 4% per cent bonds at the rate of 2 per cent, would simply be a business sition as to whether it would be more interest at the current rate. "But I imagine that the recent order per cent, bonds arises more from the conall articles of iron and steel was 24,- lack of funds. As a matter of fact, some Bank notes, and the Treasury would only have to provide 10 per cent, of the cash required to redeem them, as the banks themselves would have to provide the rest of the money, unless they should decide to 5. purchase is to replace the 41,8, which, at the present price, is not very probable. It must be remembered that when the banks pay this money to redeem their notes, the money paid in, under the recent act of Congress becomes immediately an available asset of the Government, while the National Bank notes themselves would come in very slowly for redemption.

promptive knocked him out when he heasted modent "

Berhardt was in her dressing room with she heard her favorite servant a calls or aid. She descended upon four scene shi ters like a living fury and poured forth a storm of French expletives that wou dhave withered them had they understood the Gailhe tongue.

As it was, the only thing they cangit was her demand for a revolver, and as see looked as she looks when fingering used dagger before killing Escarpla, they "If fell back.

Then the members of the company rusted to her assistance, and ranged them-selves beside her on the stage. The scene shifters also assembled in all their strenger, and for three-quarters of an hour there was just as preity a row at the Opera House as ever occurred at Donnybrock fair. More French was harled, and more tar flat patols was heard than flies ever listened to before.

Meanwhile the audience was waiting and wondering why the performance of not go on. Sarah refused to continue us less every man jack of seems shifters we are regarded to the deepest pits of jobiyle in and tied there.

The scene shifters threatened to drop a half-ton load of scenery, which was hugg up in the flies, upon the great French woman unless she subsided. But she effused to subside, and dared them to to their worst.

Finally, after several minor engagements in the rear of the stage, durling which the only casualities were a number of black eyes and a loss of French blood, the disawas calined sufficiently to continue it is performance.
